Lokmanya - Ek Yuga Purush is a Marathi biographic film written and directed by Om Raut an aspiring young director. Many times it was observed that students are acquainted with our history and culture which is only taught in schools and colleges. But there is very rigid information about the great kings, freedom fighters, and social reformers who have sacrificed their lives for our nation and strengthened the socio-economics, and political roots of our nation.

As a part of creative teaching techniques, the main objective of the movie screening was to encourage students to watch a movie on one such social reformer and freedom fighter Lokmanya Tilak and attempt to give students to know more about the era and him through cinematic perspective. This will generate students more interest as movie screenings give visual experience and help to generate interest in the subjects. We also encouraged discussions among the students from various perspectives related to films and to bring students together to share experiences.

The movie was screened at Conclave II . Total 122 students participated in this activity. The event was a success with active participation and discussion among students. One of the objectives of encouraging students to watch films and learn something from it was achieved as the convenors received positive feedback from the participants.

Now-a-days, in the world of the OTT, broadcasting, multiplexes and live streamings, theatre is gradually losing its grip on audience, however, one should not forget that theatre as an art has always been a core of performing arts since its beginning , it is oldest medium of mass communication and has a humongous contribution in creating impact in the society. Taking into consideration the above factors, we initiated a screening of a play, to create awareness of the art especially among the students of BAMMC. Through this screening we discuss with students on the process of play, playwriting, direction, genres in play and art of acting. Our topic we decided to cover through interaction was 'Genres in Play'. We selected a specific 'genre - comedy' for the interactive session. Comedy as a genre is very unique in itself as it consists of multiple variations and it sometimes becomes challenging to create comic moments through 2 hours of duration. It requires a unique set of skills be it in script writing, direction, stage setting, sound, lighting, make-up, costume and most importantly acting. Hence, we selected a comedy play in order to discuss with students the variations of comedy, farcical comedy, mannerism comedy, these and many such concepts which were covered in the class through materials and assignments. The screening along with interaction cleared many doubts amongst the students. The screening concluded with positive feedback.
